ABOUT

Max Niederköppern is a self-taught artist based in Berlin. His paintings explore the intersection of organic form and geometry. The acrylic works on canvas draw inspiration from natural growth patterns and the flowing lines of Art Nouveau.

Working entirely by hand without digital tools, he develops layered compositions where muted tones interact with luminous accents and glossy surfaces. The paintings balance structure and movement, allowing abstract and figurative suggestions to emerge without fixed narratives.

By leaving his works untitled, Niederköppern invites viewers to form their own connections within the rhythms and structures of the image.

He has lived and worked in Berlin since 2012.
